

Your greatest tool, is our greatest resource.

As an experienced Social Worker, you don't need us to tell you the value of listening. And when we started to plan for the future, the first thing we did was listen to what adults and children across the county needed. Then we acted.

We brought our social care services together to focus on improving outcomes for all our residents – setting ourselves new goals and changing how we deliver services. We changed on the inside too, because we know that to thrive in your role, you need the perfect environment. So we invested in our workforce and the systems which support them, including an excellent development programme, a competitive benefits package and a highly regarded structure of support and regular supervision.

This is what happened when we listened. If you like the sound of it, get in touch.
